Supervisor Zaragoza Commends Chief John Crombach at the Ventura County Board of Supervisors

Ventura - November 2, 2010 - The Ventura County Board of Supervisors, commended Oxnard Police Chief, John Crombach, for his 32 years of service.

Fifth District Supervisor Zaragoza, who presented the resolution to the Chief stated, "I am honored to be presenting this resolution from the Board of Supervisors. I personally want thank you for all of the work you have done in Oxnard and without a doubt, your influence has extended throughout the county." Supervisor Zaragoza further stated, "When I was a councilman for the City of Oxnard, together we worked on many issues and community based organizations. The Chief's desire to create a better understanding between the communities and the Police Department has resulted in a positive outcome, making Oxnard one of the five safest cities, of its size in the nation."

Chief John Crombach was accompanied by his wife, Danita Crombach. Also in attendance were Sheriff elect, Geoff Dean, District Attorney, Greg Totten, and Public Safety Officers. Chief John Crombach thanked the Supervisors for the recognition of his work, stating that "I would not have ever done my job as good as I did, if I did not have the good men and women believing in me and helping me accomplish my goals, it is the team work that has me in front of you today, and I thank you. "

Chief Crombach has an excellent record of community policing and problem solving in the City of Oxnard. Under his leadership in the Oxnard Police Department, he was awarded the prestigious James Q. Award in 2008 for Excellence in Community Policing. In recent years, Oxnard has enjoyed a sharp decline in crime rate dropping nearly 65% since 1992. This has made Oxnard one of the five safest cities of its size. If you would like more information about this topic, please contact Supervisor John C. Zaragoza's office, (805)654-2613.
