The VCAAA Senior Network is an informal group of local community based organizations (non-profit, for-profit and government agencies) providing services for older adults in Ventura County and/or their caregivers. The VCAAA facilitates quarterly Senior Network meetings to increase awareness of programs and services for seniors and/or their caregivers; current and projected needs and issues of seniors and/or their caregivers; challenges, issues and problems confronting service providers; success stories in the common cause of serving older adults and/or their caregivers; and actions by government and other organizations that could impact the delivery or availability of services. The VCAAA assists members of the Senior Network by providing a friendly environment for networking and creating collaborations; information and education; a forum for shared problem solving; opportunities for sharing information, materials and best practices; and information and involvement in VCAAA's annual planning process.
